

July's Message from Jean:

In a few months we will celebrate our fifth anniversary as a campus which came about when the Pennsylvania Department of Education officially granted campus status to the York Campus. Prior to that, we had been a center for a little over four years. It's exciting to think how much we have accomplished in a fairly short period of time.

On June 21st we held a One Stop Enrollment event that brought a record number of new students to our campus. Over 140 new applications were processed! This indicates that our growth has slowed, but has NOT stopped. Our plans to expand our campus services, facilities and program offerings will continue to be our focus in the next few years. Together, we can make it possible for more York County residents to meet their career and educational goals.

One of the key components of our facilities expansion has been the desire to purchase the Governor George M. Leader building. I'm pleased to share with you that a sales agreement has been signed and we anticipate that ownership will transfer by the end of 2012. This purchase will give us many options for classrooms, labs, and offices—plus, the ability to expand our learning center and library in the near future. York continues to grow and thrive because of your hard work and commitment. Thank you for all you do!

Socks & Shoes

Counseling & Advising Office

Poodle skirts, Elvis and 1950s memorabilia awaited us in Cross Keys, PA, where the Senior Day Center had been transformed into an awesome Sock Hop and 50s diner taking us all back to a bygone era. Cathy Rosenkrans, her son, Seth, and I got to spend the day with the residents of the Cross Keys Village Brethren Home. Our day began with 50s trivia...did you know the first toy ever marketed to children was Mr. Potato Head beginning in 1952?!? Next, we moved on to lots of different games played alongside the residents.

The folks at Day Center didn't let us go hungry either! Hotdogs and chips were served to all of us and the residents in adorable French fry baskets along with bottles of Coca Cola. Then, it was time to dance the afternoon away with a guest appearance from Elvis Presley and lessons in jitterbugging, the locomotion, the swim, the mashed potato and many others. Next, it was on to hula hooping. The day ended with everyone (including us) being thoroughly pooped while we sipped on our milkshakes and listened to the sounds of the 50s.

When we returned from our day of service, we were greeted with kind words from Corinne Peterson, the contact at the Cross Keys Village. She said in an email to the United Way organizers, "I think they enjoyed themselves as much as our residents did. Are we able to get them back again next year?" Corinne was spot on! We had a fantastic day, came away with a new bunch of friends, and are looking forward to going back to visit them again next year!

Back in York, Heather Burns was working with the Shoe Organizing/Matching Project at Shadowfax. Shadowfax provides residential and vocational services to people with mental health and intellectual disabilities. Her project was in the vocational training facility where a Shadowfax staff member, Dustin, explained that Shadowfax has a contract with the Clarks® shoe company to match single shoes back into pairs. Clarks® sends right shoe samples to sales staff east of the Mississippi and left shoe samples to staff in the West. Both groups send single shoes to Shadowfax to be matched with the other shoe. Shadowfax then boxes up and sends matched pairs back to Clarks® to receive a certain reimbursement per matched pair.

A volunteer crew started the project in the morning and matched approximately 100 pairs of shoes. Heather's afternoon volunteer crew consisted of four members of the United Way's Emerging Leader Society (which includes Heather) and three volunteers from Metro Bank. They unpacked single left shoes, matched those lefts with rights already warehoused at Shadowfax, placed pairs into shoeboxes, and then packed shoeboxes into larger shipping boxes. The afternoon crew matched and packed 192 pairs (far outpacing the morning crew – not that they were competing or anything!). A Shadowfax staff member told Heather's group that their work had earned Shadowfax approximately $1400.

We highly recommend getting involved in next year's United Way Day of Action. It was a fun day and a neat way to meet other volunteers from our local community! If you'd like to view more photos from all of the day's projects, check it out here:

Getting Creative at Childcare Consultants

By: Jill Mitzel

Sara Shaw and I started our United Way Day of Caring at Frank Cinemas for the annual "kick off" celebration. After the kickoff, which included breakfast, "freebies", and door prizes, we headed to Childcare Consultants in downtown York. We, along with about 6 other volunteers, painted a mural that had been drawn by one of the organizations staff members.

The mural is located in an intake room and will be enjoyed by families who are learning of the resources available to them through the organization. We had a fun day painting in the comfort of air conditioning on a very hot day!
