

Fund for Excellence for Developmental Education

At HACC, Central Pennsylvania's Community College, we recognize that some students begin their college education unprepared for college-level classes. Developmental classes support students who are not yet ready to attend college-level classes because of a reading, writing and/or math deficiency. Because we are committed to providing all students with a quality education, we strive to meet the needs of these students and prepare them for college-level classes.

The Fund for Excellence for Developmental Education provides the dollars needed to support students who require developmental education classes. By supporting these ideas and initiatives, students are able to tackle their reading, writing and/or math deficiencies and begin the rest of their educational journey that will prepare them for a successful career.

YOUR support of the Fund for Excellence for Developmental Education will help us develop innovative programs and initiatives such as:

In-class Tutoring

Eliminating the need for students to actively seek out a tutor, in-class tutoring ensures students accurately learn and retain the material so they can continue with courses that will prepare them for a career. In-class tutoring actively supplements instruction and provides more individualized support for students.

Math Computer Lab to Expand the Emporium Model

Using computer programs and customized learning plans, students can progress at their own pace and, in most case, develop their skills much more quickly than they would in a more traditional class format.

The students in the developmental education classes are capable of so much, if only YOU give them the chance. You can provide these students with the boost they need to begin the journey of preparing for successful careers by visiting hacc.edu/GiveNow to make a gift to the Fund for Excellence for Developmental Education.

"The tutoring center has been the most beneficial to me at HACC because I always loved the idea of being able to walk into the tutoring center without being embarrassed or feeling stupid and have someone proofread my paper or answer a few math questions. Everyone in the tutoring center [is] very caring and helpful."
