[A red screen with white text appears on screen reading, “HACC Remote/Virtual Courses”]

VOICEOVER:
HACC, Central Pennsylvania’s Community College,

[The Zoom icon, a clock and laptop icon appear under the text.]

VO:
offers a course option that is completely online with a combination of remote instruction and virtual learning.

[The text and image disappear and are replaced with text at the top of the screen reading, “What does this mean for you?”]

VO:
What does this mean for you?

[Under the text, an image appears of a student working at home on her laptop.]

VO:
For this type of class, you will:

[The images disappear.]
[The Zoom icon and the text, “Attend class live through Zoom at scheduled times” appears on screen.]

VO:
Attend the scheduled class live through Zoom, a video communication tool. Meet with your instructor and classmates during scheduled class times.

[Under that, a laptop with a presentation icon and the text, “Interact with classmates and instructors online” appears on screen.]

VO:
Interact with your classmates and instructors. For example, this may be through online discussion boards.

[Under that, a mouse icon and the text, “Use an online tool to complete classwork” appears on screen.]

VO:
Use HACC’s online tools to complete assigned coursework when you are not meeting via Zoom.

[Under that, a calendar icon and the text, “Have flexibility but need to meet deadlines” appears on screen.]

VO:
And have the flexibility to do your online assignments at different times, as long as deadlines are met.
None of your classes or exams will take place on campus.

When registering for classes, this option will use the terms, “Remote instruction” and “Online” as the description. An example is shown here.
