

We asked “What does it take to be a successful HACCC rad tech student?”

Here is the response in the students’ own words:

Dedication

Organization

People oriented

Be able to work wth others

Reliable

Keep a positive attitude

True interest in the subject

Commitment / determination

Good study habits

Flexibility

Motivation

Compassion

A lot of time

Willingness to work hard

Not being able to work a lot and do well in class

Patience

Perserverence

Caffeine

Car with good gas mileage

Be easy going

Large savings account (no time for job)

Open to doing new things in clinical setting

If you have a weak stomach...get over it!

Get as many gen eds out of the way before starting RADT courses